SIGMA WILL ENTERTAIN AFTER OHIO ENCOUNTER

ALUMNI URGED TO COME

To add the final touch to a great Michigan week-end, when we celebrate the hoped-for trouncing of our arch-rivals, the Ohio eleven, by a mauling Michigan machine, Lambda Chi will lead the campus party parade with an open, informal dance. This will be the Chapter's second football party, and is expected to top even the highly successful Penn party as an enjoyable and memorable event. All Sigma alumni are asked to come and join in the fun.

We'd like to come personally to the home of each individual alumni, and convince you that the party will not be a success with out the presence of you and your family. But such tactics are obviously impossible. Nevertheless, we would have to resort to such a method in order to assure the presence of certain alumni,-those men who exist to us only as mere names in our files. And it is to these "forgotten men" that we direct our invitation most hopefully--our appeal if you wish. We want you and need you. You will never regret the visit, and we will be forever grateful for such a showing of renewed friendship and loyalty. Come then, leave all your cares at home and help us, thru your presence, to make this the real "McCoy" among parties.

INTRODUCING:

Pledge Rodgers Bradley
Pledge Frank MacTernan

The past month has witnessed the pledging of these two men. Frank is from Long Island N.Y. and Rodgers from Lockport, N.Y. Both are fine fellows and of the sort we are proud to know. May they be our permanent associates. The addition of these men brings the total number of new pledges to ten.

SCHMALZRIEDT ELECTED CHAIRMAN OF TRUSTEES

The annual election of Trustees of the Lambda Chi Alpha Foundation Inc., was held Sunday morning, Nov. 3, at a meeting in the Chapter House of Sigma Zeta. Wayne Brownell, chairman of the outgoing Board of Trustees, presided over the meeting.

After dispensing with old business by summarizing the house situation, and in preface to the election, Brownell expressed his opinion as to the necessity of having "new blood" in the new board. The same was voiced by Mark Parnell.

The men elected to the group for the new year were Bob Farmer, Bill Mohrhoff, Joe Miller, Doug Stanley, Charles Parker and Allan Schmalzriedt. The latter was chosen chairman of the Board. Schmalzriedt is, in addition, the financial advisor of the Chapter

We were gratified with the turn-out of alumni at the Pennsylvania Game party. All those that we expected to come, did so. We didn't have the opportunity to speak to all of them to discover what sort of time they were having, but in the opinion of Doc "no. 1" Lockwood is any indication of the alumni spirit that night, they didn't miss anything. We contacted him personally in the heat of the doings and he reacted very favorably. Lester Meeks, if we remember correctly, supported Doc's enthusiasm in no uncertain tones. To all of you who were present--we were glad you came, and look for you again at the Ohio party.

And will you make it a point to bring another alumni, who may have missed the last party, to this one.

"A good crowd had a good time" at the last meeting of the Detroit alumni, according to "Chuck" Parker and Doug Stanley, who were present at the dinner on Monday, Nov. 11. Both anticipate being present at future meetings.

Keith Davis is winning his spurs as a teacher at Oriskany High School, at Oriskany, N.Y. If he can keep away from those young school ma'ams and stick to his readin', writin' and 'rithmetic, the spurs are his. It was certainly (page 2, col. 1)

Thanks a million for no response to our first news-letter! Are we correct in assuming that it was so good that it needed no comment? Ah, but no! That would be a downright insult to our editorial judgment. Our horse-sense tells us that in this sort of letter no alumni news is no news. And the first Sigman was blushingly lacking in alumni adornment. That same animal intelligence tells us that one of the parties on our private wire has hung up without listening. Or else he's fallen asleep. And in that condition he's of no more use to us than slippers to a snake... Do you follow our reasoning?---If you can see logic in our impudence, then, retaliate...Send us something!

obliging and brotherly of you Keith, to let Homer date that young Vasserite for you. But you'll have to keep an eye on him: before you know he'll be doing her homework for her, and then where'll you be?

Bill Mohroff is employed by Parke-Davis in Detroit. Address is 1449 Nottingham, Detroit.

"Powerhouse" McCombs is working for one. He is with General Electric in Schnectady, N.Y. How are you Al?

May we take this opportunity to commend work well done? Wayne Brownell, the retiring chairman of the Trustees is deserving of our sincere thanks for his efforts as leader of the alumni group.

SIGMANUSCRIPTS

The profound intellects of that irrepressible combination, Parker and Stanley, were stumped the other day when it came time to replace the furniture in the room they had painted. All the wall decorations were missing...But their long faces were smiling again when a freshman informed them that they had painted over them. We were relieved to hear that they neglected covering the door and were able to find their way out...

Pledge Elliot Chapman's verbal description of how he rescued himself from the bloodthirsty frosh on Black Friday, sounds like a Tom Swift novel reads... It reaches a stirring climax where a bunch of the villians have him lashed to a beam in a remote barn... and unassisted he executes a coup...surrounds them... beats them to the ground... and cuts a swath thru them to triumphantly rejoin his leaderless cronies...

A good deal of high pressure press-agenting has made it necessary to the security of our journalistic integrity for us to announce the loss of two slightly used pins. But secret sypwork by our informer reveals that two young ladies about the campus have been lock-

(cont'd from col. 2) ing very fetching lately, wearing those very pins and escorted by our notorious Lotharios, Bruna and Hunt.

We almost fell out of our chairs the other night when an ungodly noise reached our ears...some blackguard seemed to be choking the life out of someone...mustering up our courage we swung into action...and bounded up the steps at scout's pace, to the scene of the crime. ...But after breaking down a door we were nonplused... we gazed on the contorted features of Bruce Carr and Jess James...they were practising...Bruce on that burping spittoon of his... and Jess on his penny-whistle...(sax and flute to you)

And now, alumni, your attention please: This little game can be played by all of you..shut your eyes and allow your pencil to fall somewhere in the names listed below. To the lucky person, send a nice long letter...if you fail to get an answer, write us and we'll send you one:

- Byron Carpenter, 527 Main St., Stevens Point, Wis.
- Hubert Baker, Byron Center, Michigan.
- Earle Ladd, Box 352 Wickford, R. I.
- Harold Oakes, Laura, Ill.
- Rollan Smith, 2929 19th St., San Francisco.
- Ray Watters, 456 Market St., Akron, Ohio.

...If you do get a letter, which we hope you do, write us and tell us about it...See you at the Ohio party.
