THE SIGMAN

University of Michigan Chapter of Lambda Chi Alpha
Ann Arbor, Michigan

SIGMA, ALIVE AND WELL

The Greek System thrives at the University of Michigan these days. The streets of Ann Arbor are over flowing with students who proudly sport their Greek paraphernalia letting them know which house they belong to. The active membership at 1601 carry this feeling of pride to the hilt. Coupled with the enthusiasm, the quality of the men is as strong as it ever was.

I think it is safe to say that most alumni see their years in A<sup>2</sup> in a similar light as we do today. Of course Lambda Chi, and the Greek System in general, has had it's shakey moments in the past due to wars and changing national attitudes. Whether it be that your group was exceptionally bright or high spirited, that your bunch was closely knit, or that your house was always delayed by Lambda Chi - crazy coeds, these characteristics did exist and most are alive and well today.

Many great events are planned for the upcoming academic year. For instance, the vice-president and his committee are in the process of arranging the Lambda Chi Alpha Fun Run to benefit Motts Children's Hospital, an event assured of being a success if a few obstacles are overcome. Also, Homecoming will be a great reunion as it is Sigma's 70th anniversary. These and numerous other activities for actives as well as alums will make the year exceptional.

Of course, Sigma has its share of problems but they can be overcome with the high caliber of young men we have. Simply put, we are doing our best to keep the Lambda Chi tradition of excellence going and with your continued help, through example and encouragement, we will be successful.

Yours in ZAX

Sigma's 70th Anniversary

A few men, Leland Frank Reynolds, Raymond B. Watters, and Perry Jay Lockwood, Sigma Number One, began a tradition of pride and prestige that has lasted seventy years. The year 1983 is Sigma Zeta's 70th Anniversary. Sigma kicked off the anniversary year on March 31, Sigma Founders Day, with Lambda Chi Alpha Day and Senior Banquet. Sigma has many alumni related events planned for the 70th Anniversary, but we also encourage brothers to stop by the house and we look forward to meeting many of you throughout the year.
